Mr. Yewchuck and Mr. Fluker,

Notwithstanding instructions from the Joint Review Panel that a script of final arguments could be submitted to the Registry at the time of oral argument, we understand that CPAWS' counsel thought that simply providing the CPAWS script of final argument to the court reporter would suffice. Clearly this was an error. However, since no parties will be prejudiced from having the CPAWS script (with references) filed after the close of the record, and there could benefit from having the references available, the Panel has decided to allow it to be placed on the record.
