

Opportunity for public participation

The Minister of Environment and Climate Change asked the Impact Assessment Agency of Canada (the Agency) to work with Parks Canada and Environment and Climate Change Canada to carry out a study on Rouge National Urban Park (the Park). The objective of the Study is to understand the potential effects, including cumulative effects, of past, ongoing, and potential future nearby development projects on the integrity of the Park and its management objectives.

As part of the planning for the Rouge Urban National Park Study, the Agency invites the public and Indigenous groups to provide input on the approach and scope for the Study. All comments will be documented and taken into consideration to inform the Terms of Reference for carrying out the Study.
